

Published based on Mexican Riviera Cruises - Great Option For Your Next Vacation

Mexican Riviera Cruises - Great Option For Your Next Vacation

There is one specific cruising destination which due to its closeness, low-cost offers and fascinating stops is worth considering for a cruise lover. It's, obviously, Mexico, and the specific itinerary is down the Pacific seacoast of this great country. Another term for this region around the globe is Mexican Riviera. Holiday cruise trips here are typically remembered because of their incredible landscapes, diverse fauna and a many ancient and national monuments and places of interest. Mexican Riviera cruises will amaze not only the lovers of the outdoors but if you are looking for care-free and relaxing holiday on the beach front or searching for thrilling adventures - you won't be unhappy with your choice.

Cruise trips to Mexican Riviera normally start either in San Diego or Los Angeles. If you haven't visited them before here's a great thought for you: get there several days sooner or lengthen your trip by several days at the end of the cruise and spend time in either one of these main California metropolitan areas. And there is no scarcity of what to see. San Diego has its own famous zoo, sea world and historic Gaslamp Quarter. After that you can also unwind in Balboa Park or Japanese Tea Garden. Los Angeles, of course, is the center of the film industry. Head to Hollywood and check out the stars of famous actors on the Walk of Fame. There is also famous Venice beach and Santa Monica.

So, on to the actual itinerary and some of the areas that you will experience.

Acapulco is a port town on the Pacific Ocean. Prominent Costa Miguel Aleman Boulevard boasts a many retailers dining establishments, bars, discos and other entertainment venues. Amongst significant places of interest are the cultural center and a museum of history.

La Paz is located at the bottom of the California Peninsula that is known for rugged desert and panoramic shoreline. There is lots of lodging and entertainment choices. It is also a good place for people who like an energetic type of a holiday.

Puerto Vallarta is a romantic town on the coastline of Mexican Riviera. It's a good spot for a relaxing getaway. Most of the beaches can be found in the north area of the town, the south area boasts a number of smaller coves and lagoons and is ideal for scuba diving and snorkeling.

Ensenada borders the desert, mountain ranges and the Pacific Ocean. It was established in the 17th century by Spanish missionaries. These days it's a popular port.

Mazatlan is located where the Pacific Ocean meets the Sea of Cortez. There are lots of beach fronts, bars and dining establishments. The neighboring islands are great for sports activities.

The perfect time of the year for Mexican Riviera cruises is from November to May.

You can also find this article published on Mexican Riviera Cruises - Great Option For Your Next Vacation, and on the tag pages holiday, interest, japanese tea garden, Mexican, Mexican Riviera cruises, pacific seacoast.