Vacation In Lo de Marcos Mexico And Go Deep Sea Fishing

Lo de Marcos, A Growing Town for Explorers and Retirees

Part of Riviera Nayarit, Lo De Marcos is a sleepy fishing town with a tranquil lengthy beach and a countryside atmosphere. Famous among surfers, well-to-do Mexican clans, and international visitors, the Mexican town boasts of stunning scenery. Lo De Marcos is refreshingly inviting and cool. On ordinary days, the town is almost lacking of visitors. On weekends and holidays, Lo De Marcos becomes crowded with people from inland and international. This makes the sleepy fishing town a busy town like Sayulita. But it reverts back to stillness when tourist population reduces.

The community

Lo De Marcos, which has a population of about 3,000, is one of the most legitimately Mexican communities. The cobblestone streets are lined with homes and stores, and the people are busy making some money as fishermen and workers in restaurants, {shops|stores}, and other tourist and tour establishments. Some trade traditional Mexican goods on the streets. Lo De Marcos children are happy souls. They can be found playing outside their homes or frolicking at the Lo De Marcos beach.

Lo De Marcos community is very traditional. It lends itself to cultural fascination, so every gues and second/retirement house owner can experience the true Mexican customs and be one of the community. The beachside living seems as a exact contrast to the busyness of city lifestyle.

Lo De Marcos beach, the tourist lure

If there is a thing that people always come back to, it would certainly be the Lo De Marcos beach. The beach is superbly exotic, with palms lining the white sand. On weekends and holidays, families are joined together below umbrellas, experiencing the scenery, the sun, and the air.

The water is cool and pure and perfect for a day-long of swimming. There are waves coming in from time to time, but they're commonly moderate enough to swim with. When the waves are pretty strong, locals and visitors bring out their surf boards and enjoy surfing on the waves. In fact, surfing is among of the best tourist events in Lo De Marcos.

The long shore is perfect for morning and afternoon walks. The sand is white and soft, making the whole beach scene a splendid display. The north end of Lo De Marcos beach boasts of a home of tropical birds, while schools of fish are almost always present on the south end.

The best of the Mexican delicacies

Obviously, Lo De Marcos prides itself on being a center of traditional Mexican culinary. Tacos, most popularly, are plentiful in Lo De Marcos. In reality, people find "taco trip" an enjoyable affair, which lets them to take a taste of diverse tacos sold in the town.

And as Lo De Marcos has a huge supply of seafood, seafood specialties are always offered on the table. There are also mouth-watering pastry produce in the town, which are traditionally cooked in clay ovens.

But what's appealing is that Lo De Marcos also serves Western culinary to give their guests a better range of food choices. Burgers, for instance, are served in the town.

Wonderful serenity

What makes Lo De Marcos an appealing town is that it gives the type of peaceful and calming living not seen in urban, and even in rural, areas. The beach scene, the traditional delicacies, the accommodating and hospitable natives, and the overall charm of Lo De Marcos make it a beautiful piece of Mexican gem—for Mexicans, retirees, and visitors.
